

Abstract: Complex systems are composed of elements connected according to nonlinear interactions. Examples of complex systems are the internet, ecosystems and social networks. In this talk, we will present how to model the structure and dynamics of complex systems with complex networks. Some applications in biology, medicine and economics will be presented. We will also address how statistics and machine learning can be used to predict dynamics variables in complex networks.